ERRATA

The derived export data for Iran 1960 and 1961 and for Kuwait 1960 in the country tables on pages 248 and 255 are in error and should not be used. These errors are reflected in the general tables, e.g.

Page 4. World Total, Part I, Exports

	1960	1961
IRAN	1808.3*	1911.5*
should read	967.4*	1035.5*
KUWAIT	1764.5*
should read	1400.3*

Since these data are derived from the import statistics of other countries, the correct entries for the Part I export figures for these two countries for these dates in any of the Summary tables can be found in the corresponding Part II, Imports entries and the correct entries for the detail of the country tables can be found in the Iran and Kuwait entries in the tables for other countries.

In a few other cases derivative entries are incorrect by small amounts.

Conversion Factors 375
Abreviations 376

The tables in this volume bring forward the materials on the country distribution of international trade previously published for 1938 and for 1948 through 1959 in the annual issues of the joint UN, IBRD, IMF publication Direction of International Trade. This volume contains annual data for the years 1958 through 1962 for 200 countries or territories and 34 summarizations of those data by areas and for the world as a whole.

COUNTRY TABLES

Materials for the country pages are for the most part collected directly from reporting countries. As before, data for some countries are supplied by the Statistical Office of the United Nations. For countries for which national data on the country distributions of exports and imports are available the country tables on pages 128ff represent those data converted into data expressed in U.S. dollar valuations with the table of conversion factors given on page 375, assembled in a standard order, and summarized into subtotals for a standard list of geographic areas. No other adjustments are made to the data as published by countries excepting that re-exports and special category trade are added into the data for countries publishing those items separately and, where possible, monthly data are summed to totals for years ending with December for countries whose annual data refer to other kinds of years. Entries are omitted when no figure larger than $1 million would appear in the ten columns. The figures, however, are included in the totals and subtotals, are included in the summary table calculations (see below), and are included in any derivative calculations (see below).

An indication of the size of the differences between the data as here published and as they might be if the IFS adjustments to countries' total exports and imports were carried into the trade by country distributions and their totals is given in the table below that compares the IFS and DIT totals for countries' exports and imports in 1962 for all countries for which the difference is as large as $10 million or as large as 5 per cent of the IFS figure.

The most important differences arise from the valuation of imports fob in the reports of some countries. All countries report exports fob except Bolivia whose exports are valued at foreign market prices including the costs of smelting metals.

DERIVATIVE ENTRIES

For countries for which reports of the country distributions of exports or imports are not available for any year the country tables substitute derivative data for the years for which national data are not available. The derivative data for a country's exports (imports) are assembled from the reported imports from (exports to) that country in the reports of other countries. The derivative entries are taken directly from the trade-by-country data of reporting countries without adjustment for the timing differences that necessarily exist between the export by an exporting country and the corresponding import by the importing country and without adjustment for the valuation difference necessarily involved when imports reported cif are used as an indication of other countries' exports or when export data are used as an indication of other countries' cif imports. All derivative entries are marked with a star.

The countries for which derivative entries are used and the comparison for 1962 of their total exports and imports obtained from the sums of the derivatives with IFS data (reported or included in area totals) for their total exports and imports are as follows:

	Total Exports		Total Imports			Total Exports		Total Imports

SUMMARY TABLES

The summary tables record for 32 areas both (1) the country and area distributions of exports to and imports from that area and (2) the country and area distributions of the exports and imports of that area. Each concept leads also to a world total, i.e., world and area exports and imports as added up from the total exports and imports of each country, and the country and area distribution of world exports and imports as added up from the distributions of trade by country and area of all countries. The derivative tables for nonreporting countries and the derivative entries for the years for which reports are not available from countries are included in all the summary tables.

The construction of the summary tables can most easily be understood from the condensed matrix of 1962 data, below. The matrix shows the data for the U.S. and Canada, for the area group "US and Canada," for Saudi Arabia (a country whose data are derived from the reports of other countries), and for other countries as a whole, and for the world.

Columns for individual countries provide the country tables for those countries. The sums of the columns for the countries in any area provide the country and area distributions of the exports and imports of that area (part II of the table for that area). The sums of the columns for all countries provide the country and area distribution of world exports and imports (part II of the World Table). The rows for individual countries are not used for the construction of any tables. The sums of the rows for all the countries of an area provide the country and area distribution of exports to and imports from that area (part I of the table for that area). The sums of the rows for all countries provide the country and area distribution of exports to and imports from the world as a whole (part I of the World Table). As will be seen in the matrix the world totals in parts I and II of the world table necessarily agree, and in each of the area tables the entries for that area's trade with that area in parts I and II necessarily agree.

The summary tables are presented in two part tables to bring together for easy comparison the data reported by the countries in an area and the data reported by other countries as exports to or imports from that area. For example, the condensed matrix would produce the following tables for the world and for the area group "US and Canada":

WORLD EXPORTS AND IMPORTS

	Part I			Part II
	(1)	(2)		(3)	(4)
	Exports	Imports		Exports	Imports
Of U.S.	21,568	16,478	to U.S.	15,862	23,790
Of Canada	5,931	5,849	to Canada	5,666	6,320
Of US & Canada	27,499	22,327	to US & Canada	21,528	30,110

Of All Other	114,023	126,422	to All Others	120,696	117,939
Of Total	142,470	148,996	to World	142,471	148,997

U.S. & CANADA

	Part I			Part II
	(1)	(2)		(3)	(4)
	Exports	Imports		Exports	Imports
Of U.S.	3,841	3,685	to US	3,510	4,024
Of Canada	3,510	4,024	to Canada	3,841	3,685
Of US & Canada	7,351	7,709	to US & Canada	7,351	7,709
Of Saudi Arabia	105*	81*	to Saudi Arabia	81	105
Of All Other	14,072	22,320	to All Other	20,069	14,512
Of Total	21,528	30,110	to Total	27,501	22,326

In the absence of statistical problems of any kind the entries in column (1) would agree with those in column (4) and those in column (2) would agree with those in column (3) if all countries reported imports fob, or the two import columns would exceed the corresponding export columns by the cost of freight and insurance if all countries reported imports cif.

The total for exports and imports in the world table differs from the world total for exports and imports in IFS partly because of the differences in the country entries described above but, most importantly, because the tables given in this volume cover the world indluding the Sino-Soviet countries, while the IFS table covers the exports and imports of other countries to and from the Sino-Soviet countries but does not include those countries' exports to or imports from other countries.

AREA GROUPS

The countries included in the groups called "Industrial Countries" and "Oil Exporters" throughout this volume are as follows:

Industrial Countries	Oil Exporters:
Austria	Bahrein
Belgium Luxembourg	British Arab States NS
Canada	Brunei
Denmark	Iran
France	Iraq
Germany Fed. Rep.	Kuwait
Italy	Libya
Japan	Muscat-Oman
Netherlands	Netherlands Antilles
Norway	North Borneo
Sweden	Qatar
Switzerland	Sarawak
United Kingdom	Saudi Arabia
United States	Trinidad-Tobago
	Trucial-Oman
	Venezuela

The group called "Unclassified" in the summarization at the tops of the tables includes the two entries "Countries not specified" and "Special Category." The former includes exports to or imports from countries that could not be assigned to any area. The latter includes ships bunkers, U.S. military aid, and other items not distributed by country in countries' trade returns.
